About the Publishers

Cambridge Scholars Publishing is an independent academic publisher committed to providing visionary publications which advocate for original thinking. Founded in 2001 by former Cambridge University professors and researchers, they publish original scholarly work in four key areas: Humanities and Social Sciences, Health Sciences, Physical Sciences and Life Sciences.

Oxford University Press is a department of the University of Oxford whose mission is to promote the university's goal of excellence in research, scholarships and education through publications worldwide. Today, OUP has offices in 50 countries and is the largest and oldest university press in the world.

SAGE Publishing is a global academic publisher of books, journals and a growing assortment of library products and services.

Driven by the belief that social and behavioral sciences have the power to improve society, SAGE focuses on publishing impactful research and enabling a sound research methodology. They produce more than 1,000 new journals and 900 new books worldwide annually. Their publications focus primarily on social and behavioral sciences, including business, health and engineering.

Taylor & Francis Group publishes books for all levels of academic study and professional development in a wide range of subjects and disciplines. Books on Social Sciences and Humanities are published under the imprints Routledge, Psychology Press and Focal Press, while the CRC Press imprint publishes books on science, technology and medicine.

Worldwide, healthcare professionals, students, and researchers make important decisions related to the care of their patients using Wolters Kluwer Health's integrated solutions and content in areas such as Clinical Decision Support, Clinical Drug Information, Clinical Documentation, Clinical Terminology, Clinical Surveillance, Nursing, and Medical Research.

Wiley is a global leader in research and education. From a print shop in New York City to a global and digital presence, they have spent more than 200 years developing and fueling the world's knowledge ecosystem. Today, their high-impact content, platforms, and services help researchers, learners, institutions, and corporations achieve their goals in an ever-changing world.
